Mr. Flynn and the City Fathers Decide to Modify the Water Contract.

500,000 TO BE RETAINED

Only Hitch Is Over the Payment of Interest on the Sum Kept Back.

The water muddle is at last clearing. At this morning's adjourned conference be tween representatives of Contractor P. H. Flynn and the Mayor and joint com mittees of the Finance and the Street and Water Boards, terms for the modification of the water supply contract were practically agreed upon. The only hitch now is over the question as to whether the city shall pay every six months the interest on the $500,000 which Mr. Flynn agrees to allow the city to retain until he can secure the alleged rights of the Morris and Essex Canal Company to a portion of the flow of the Rockaway River or retain the interest with the principal until his terms of the original contract are carried into effect.

The other terms offered by Mr. Flynn in not impair the original terms, but merely Mr. Flynn's head. removes a technicality that stands in the way of financiering the big work, appear acceptable to the city. The matter of retaining the interest on the $500,000 retalned out of the purchase money at the completion of the works until the contractor can carry out the original contract and give Jersey City the "whole' flow of the Rockaway River, is to be submitted to Mr. Flynn by his counsel. As soon as Mr. Flynn is heard from another conference will be held and the proposition to modify the contract definitely settled

The full text of Mr. Flynn's proposition is embodied in the following communication to the Mayor and the joint ommittee of the Finance and the Street and Water Boards :-

To His Honor the Mayor and Joint Committee of the Boards of Finance and Street and Water Commissioners.

Gentlemen-As requested by your joint committee, I submit the following terms to which I am willing to agree, if the city will modify the water contract of February 28, 1899, under the act of March 22, 1901, as outlined in my letter of March 30, PATRICK H. FLYNN. By WALLIS, EDWARDS & BUMSTED, His Attorneys.

Dated June 13, 1901. Mr. Edwards read off the propositions e by one. They were discussed thorughly. Mr. Ringle did most of the talking for the city. Mr. Ringle declared that the city would pay no interest on the $500,000 retained until after the contract was performed and the principal paid over to the contractor. He declared also that the city should at least be protected to the extent of $1000,000. Mr. Flynn's propositions covers that

Mayor Hoos declared that the contractor would not be able to finish the works on specified time. To Mr. Edwards's remark that the works would be completed about on time, the Mayor said:-"This is a bluff, like Harrison's. You'll pay the penalty, all the same. You don't mean to finish them on time." Discussing the amount of money to be held back, Mr. Edwards said Mr. Flynn did not want the Morris and Essex Canal Company to hold a whip over his head. The Mayor read an extract from the counsel of the Canal Company's letter to the conference warning the city concerning its rights, but declaring that it wantconsideration of a modification of the or- ed to help the city. He said that did not iginal contract-a modification that will look as though it was holding a whip over Corporation Counsel McDermott said the Canal Company had not treated the city fairly or even decently. They had a contract with Mr. Flynn to sell their rights for $100,000. All it had to do was to extend its contract. If the company's property was condemned no court would allow it more than that amount for damages. Mr. McDermott subsequently declared his belief that the Legislature would never will have reference almost exclusively to allow the Canal Company to abandon the the testimony which has been taken since canal in favor of Jersey City so long as it charged the city one cent for it. He further said that the men who are going of E. F. C. Young, John F. Dryden, John to advance the money would see to it D. Crimmmins, David Young, R. C. Jenthat the contract would be carried out to kinson and a score of others, and is conthe letter.

In reply to Mr. Ringle's assertion that Mr. Flynn had broken promises several times Mr. Edwards declared that Mr. Flynn had lived up to the contract and was even giving the people a better plant the lease to the North Jersey Street Railthan the contract called for. He said the way Company were included in the direcwork was pronounced by all to be better tory of the latter corporation, and that than the specifications called for and that the benefits accruing to the first named he was giving the city a tunnel that would corporation made the act of these carry ten millions more than the one directors illegal. called for in the contract, to which Mr. thousand dollars which now "remains in ed that the contractor would not make a

Elizabeth, June 2, 1901.

To the Recorder of Jersey City:—

I wish to ask a favor, and it is this:—Can you give me any information of a certain John Drake that lived in New Jersey many years ago? He had a son named Jacob, who was my great grandfather. Can you tell me the name of the ship he sailed in to this country? I understand he came in the same ship with William Penn and they built a settlement either in Jersey City or Philadelphia and I think they called it Drakestown. Any information you can find about this John Drake will be thankfully received by the inquirer. There might be some of the descendants still living there yet, and if there is please let me know and I will write to them. This John Drake is a descendant of Sir Francis Drake.

TRACTION STOCK SUIT.

Judge Gray Withholds De- Freeholders Decide to be Vice President Young Sure cision in Case Against North Jersey Co.

Important suits against the Consolidat-ed Traction Co. and North Jersey Street Railway Company were heard yesterday in the U. S. Circuit Court before Judge Gray. The suits are the executors of the estate of Samuel T. Dickinson of Maryland against the companies.

The argument was made before the court for a couple of days by eminent awyers for both sides. Among the prominent street railroad men and financiers who were witnesses in the case were David Young and John F. Dryden, of Newark, and E. F. C. Young of Jersey City. The petitioners alleged fraud in the transfer of the Consolidated company to he other at the time consolidation took clace a few years ago.

Every street railway company in the ountry using electricity as motor power vitally interested in the outcome of this suit.

The papers were filed December 28, 1899, when an order was issued by the court estraining the payment of interest on the bonds of the North Jersey Street Railway. This order was vacated January 18, following, by Justice Gray, who was sitting at Wilmington, Del., in the United States Circuit Court, on the ground that full justice could be given the complainants on final hearing.

The court held that the allegations of echnical fraud in the conveyance of the property of the Consolidated Traction Company were debatable and that in any event the directors of the defendant corporation were of undisputed financial rewithout interfering with the consummation of the consolidation. The vacation of the order permitted the defendant directors to pay the interest on the bonds. The final hearing, which began today, the original bill was filed.

This testimony includes the statements tained in printed volumes of over 5.000

The chief contention is that the directors of the Consolidated Traction Company at the time of the execution of The complainants also claimed that called for in the contract, to which Mr. Ringle replied that it was taken for granted that the contractor would not make a hole to crawl through, but one that could be walked through.

"All right, then," laughed Mr. Edwards. "I'll let you be inspector."

A question of profits of the contractor led to a little tilt between the Mayor and Engineer Harrison.

"You told us you had the money before the contract was signed," said the Mayor." I'll only the believe in that kind of business."

The complainants also claimed that the country's property on the same plane as the old men's pavilion, from which it is about 300 feet distant. A warden and a matron are the only attendants at the institution.

The need for a new pesthouse hospital has long been known and no doubt one would have been provided for long ago but there had been so little use for the consolidation has proven the wisdom of Mr. Shanley, and the North Jersey Street Railway Company is considered one of the building until the recent outbreak that it was postponed from time to time.

There are about a dozen Italians in the company and the casualties might have been serious but for the fact that the company was away on a picnic. Two men who were left to watch the building were badly burned about the hands and face. One of them, Petro Geroni, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital. The name of the other could not be learned.

The explosions practically demolished the building. The firemen had considerable difficulty in fighting the blazing ruins, as the building stood on a lot surcounded on three sides by marsh land.

The opinion expressed by County Physician Charles B. The specifications adopted for the new boat call for a steamer 140 feet long, 27 feet beam, 12 feet draught and 600 horse power. These specifications were drawn by Cary Smith, the well known expert in that line, and blue prints will be sent to every prominent builder to submit bids. The name for the new cruising boat will probably be the Sandy Hook, although as somebody suggested it should be called "Chase."

The weekly uiscussion of line wells and first launchea it appeared that the whole regiment was in favor of it. But a careful poll of each company brought out the fact that there were not so many who cared to take the march and many others who could not afford to take the time away from their business. So all plans have fallen through, and there will be no march through, and there will be no march through the wilds of Jersey to the ocean camp.

This decision naturally caused some disappointment, but on the whole it was received with favor. A tramp through the state in hot weather is not the place."
